POSTAL REGULATORY COMMISSION

Dear Sirs:

I am a United States citizen who frequently sends letters, cards and parcels through the United States Post Office.

I am concerned about Postmaster General Louis DeJoy's 10 year plan to reorganize the Postal Service. I am concerned that he will dismantle the Postal Service to privatize it. He has had no prior experience in organizing a postal service. He did considerable harm to the Postal Service in 2020.

The plan cuts post office hours. It will close "a small percentage" (according to DeJoy) of stations. Will these stations be where disadvantaged people live? Will it hamper use of mail-in ballots as in 2020?

I agree that postage fees should be increased. It may decrease the amount of junk mail I receive.

I also hope the service will use electric vehicles to modernize, lessen fuel costs and be environment friendly.

I object to the plan as proposed by DeJoy. I want a new Postmaster General with no conflict of interest to plan the future of the Postal Service.

Sincerely,
